Stony Plain Town Council.

Stony Plain Town Council held its regular meeting on Thursday last, Feb. 22, with the Mayor and all the Councillors present.

The first business was swearing in the new Council, after which the following committees were appointed:

Standing—Dr. Outway, J. Miller.

Building—Hy Miller, Hy Oppertshausen.

Pound—J. Forster, G. W. Donaldson.

M. S. Moyer was appointed to the Health Board for a 3-year term.

T. J. Hardwick was reappointed to the Parks Board. Mr. Lunty was appointed Inspector under the Mothers' Allowance Act.

A communication was received from the Safety Appliance Co., Calgary, re the request of Council for permission to return supplies bought by last year's Fire Committee created considerable discussion. A further effort will be made to return these, in exchange for goods which the Town can use to better advantage.

The new Pound Bylaw, restraining animals running at large was next discussed, and the matter was given to the Pound Committee for action.

The account from R. Doll for work performed in 1921 and 1922 was referred to the Parks Board.

This being the inaugural meeting, Mr. Ashcan and Red Nancy were given the once over by the new Councillors, with some aid from the rest present. The ashes business was gone into in a Accident to Jake Hoffman.

While riding horseback over to visit a friend on Sunday afternoon, young Mr. Jake Hoffman had the misfortune to have his horse slip and fall down, the young man's leg being underneath, breaking it. He was taken to Dr. Outway's surgery, where the patient received treatment, and afterward sent to an Edmonton hospital.

very thorough manner, one serious-minded Councillor taking the matter very much to heart. 'Tis probable that when the Ashcan Inspector gets going, Janitor Johnson will have tenants in the bird cages behind the chemical engines.

The fire engine question also created some discussion, during which it was noticed those strongly in favor of the town purchasing some such apparatus for fire protection were noticeable for their very quiet attitude. After one Councillor had explained at great length why the town did not need a fire engine, a motion was put and carried that the Secretary procure particulars regarding the purchase of a hand-pump, several former Ontarians giving glowing descriptions of the magnificent work done by these wonderful fire-fighting machines.

YOUNG DAUGHTER MADE WELL

Mother Tells How Her Daughter Suffered and Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vancouver, B.C.—"My daughter is a young girl who has been having severe pains and many feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an older daughter who had been a woman who was taking it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. It has done all it was represented to do and we have told a number of friends about it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for that weak, tired, worn-out feeling which sometimes comes to us all. I find it in ignoring me up and asking me to recommend it to women who are suffering as I and my daughter are."—Mrs. McDonald, 2941 29th Ave. East, Vancouver, B.C.

From the age of twelve a girl needs all the care a helpful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions.

Aim Of Colonization Body To Bring Under Production Great Tracts Of Idle Land

According to officials of the Canadian Colonization Association, that organization begins 1923 with an active force in the field, a large area of listed lands and a considerable number of prospective settlers waiting to come in the spring. M. A. Brown, Vice-President, and Seward Ewert, have issued the following statement:

"The obstacles of the success of the association are being steadily overcome. If the officers of the association have remained silent for some time past it has been because we have been engaged in solving difficulties partly of this character and partly arising out of existing conditions.

"We are making satisfactory progress in working out the national land settlement plan which was given to the public in September. Listings of privately owned land along the rail ways are coming into our head office at Winnipeg in good volume. Owners of several hundreds of thousands of acres have placed their properties with the association for sale on the 35-year payment plan, so that we can already offer incoming settlers a wide choice of location. Thus in a few weeks it has been amply demonstrated that our long-term sales plan is acceptable to a large number of owners and more are falling into line every day.

"The settlers also can be obtained. The sales department of the association already has applications from a large number of farmers who will look over the listed lands with a view to purchase as soon as the weather permits in the spring. In addition to nearly 200 prospects thus secured, the association is in touch with 500 Norwegian-American tenant farmers possessing stock and implements and with 400 American Polio possessors from $2,500 to $2,500 each. One hundred Danish-American families are also available. With a view to securing these settlers the association is co-operating with the national societies interested.

"In the last few weeks our association has made marked progress in building up an effective land settlement. It has already in its service several hundred Canadian land agents. It has 130 agents actively at work in the United States and will appoint several hundred additional representatives. The British field is recognized as highly important from the national standpoint as we should draw an adequate proportion of our new population from the United Kingdom. In accordance with the national land settlement plan, the Dominion Government is carrying on an energetic campaign to acquaint the British people with the farming opportunities to be found in Canada.

"There is no salvation for the west or for Canada as a whole save that of bringing under production the great tracts of idle land lying close to transportation facilities. The association is now doing its part in performing this invaluable service. While governments and farmers' organizations are grappling with the question of improved conditions for those already on the soil, our organization is striving to better the economic condition of a whole people by introducing desirable settlers and establishing them on a satisfactory basis."

A Good Winter Layer

New Type of Hen Produced by Quebec Experimenters

Canada may have its own national chicken. Then hen is called the Chantecler. The man who developed the new breed is Father Wilfrid, Poultry Husbandman at the Quebec Agricultural Institute at Oko.

Years of patient experimentation and investigation were necessary to develop the ideal Canadian hen. She will take no prize at a beauty show, says Father Wilfrid, but is guaranteed a prime egg producer in zero weather.

"I wanted to produce a bird of real service," said the breeder, "a good winter layer and one capable of putting on flesh when consigned to the fattening pen. One of the first things necessary was to reduce the comb and wattles to a minimum, for the comb of a fowl is the cause of severe losses during the winter.

"Experiments started with the Cornish fowl, an acknowledged healthy and vigorous breed. To get good laying qualities, the Cornish was crossed with the White Leghorn. For winter laying, strains were introduced of the Rhode Island Red, Wyandotte and Plymouth Rock."

This is what the Chantecler looks like: Beak, yellow; eyes, reddish bay; plumage, snow-white; shanks, yellow; comb, face, wattles and ear lobes, bright red.

A movement has been started, with the endorsement of Hon. W. L. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, to build a memorial at Oko. This will take the form of a block of granite, with a bust of Father Wilfrid, and an iron arch on which will be perched a pair of Chanteclers.

Irritation can't live in the throat of a person inhaling Catarrhose. It is so soothing, so warming, so fully of concentrated healing power that you get results at once. Catarrhose strengthens the weak throat, stops the cough, removes that hacking irritating necessity to clear the throat, makes even the chronic sufferer realize that at last he has discovered a real friend. Beef Cattle Markets

The Kind Required, the Time to Sell, and the Policy to Pursue

In a statement issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, apropos of the removal of the British embargo, refers to the outlook for the Canadian cattle. The principal points made are:—

British market.—By supplying the right type and quality, Canada should be able to obtain a good price for its cattle, which imports from 700,000 to 800,000 live cattle every year. Store cattle should average around 1,100 pounds, and should be two-year-olds or well-bred long yearlings of the breeding necessary to take on proper finish. They should be delivered.

The market will continue to take finished beef cattle, 1,200 lbs. or over, of the form and quality to dress out to a high percentage. The schedule of influence of the British market reads: Middle of March to end of May, on winter fed cattle of medium weight to go on British pasture; May and June, on well-bred, grain-fed cattle for immediate slaughter; August to November, on grass-finished cattle. Use a pure-bred bull.

United States market.—Considering the recently enacted tariff it is only good quality young cattle that will net the producer any profit.

Home Market.—Canada's domestic market is exactly in accordance with the demand of the British market, the class of animal that gets the top price and nets the most profit being the early-matured, well-finished steer weighing around 1,500 pounds. Buyers complain that there are altogether too few of a good butcher type of animal coming on the market, that is animals full in the loin with well-rounded hips, small shank, short neck and evenly covered with fat.

In general.—Cattle that went on feed last fall at weights below 1,100 lbs. should be finished to market in Britain in April and May. To secure calves of quality and early maturity, a good pure-bred bull is absolutely essential. If no such bull is obtainable, consult the Livestock Branch, Ottawa. Dehorn all calves, using caustic potash or lye. Dehorn present steers before the warm weather comes, using clippers or saw. Bring cattle to early maturity. It is good business to get cattle to market as long yearling and two-year-olds. Market cattle at the right time and carry over suitable unfinished stock, for winter finishing. The opening of the British market should make winter finishing doubly profitable.

Britain Stands Alone Among European Belligerents In Balancing Her Budget

The Boy Scouts

In the Public Interest that Association Should Receive Support

In accepting election to the Provincial Council of the Boy Scouts' Association, General Sir Arthur Currie has set an example of active support which more public men would do well to follow. The organization needs both leaders and patrons. Much of the early interest that accompanied the rise of the Scout movement has subsided. The uniform has become a regular feature of the streets, the wearers have ceased to be a butt for good-natured jests, and the Boy Scouts are now so firmly established that it occurs to few that continuous support is needed from the public. Yet without the active interest of representative men the interest of the boys would soon flag and one of our most valuable institutions would be in danger of becoming moribund. That this would be infinitely regrettable is no exaggeration. The code of honor and duty up to which the Scouts must live, and actually in most cases do live, not only makes for a better citizenship in times of peace and prosperity, but bears its fruit when war and disorder are abroad. No one who saw it will forget the devoted loyalty of Boy Scouts during air raids in London. Moreover, a Scout's training is not forgotten afterwards. It generally safe to say that if a man has been a good Scout, he will be a good citizen. It is, therefore, to the interests of the community in general that the Association should be supported.—Montreal Star.

Canadian Export Eggs

Take First Preference on British Market According to Statement

Production of eggs in Canada during 1922 was almost double that of the previous year. R. B. Hunter told members of the Winnipeg Poultry Association in an address on the subject "Canadian Eggs." The number of dozens produced was 250,000,000. Exports totalled 2,619,000 dozen, and imports approximately 7,500,000 dozens. The people of Canada consumed, he pointed out, about six eggs a week per capita, as against 3½ of the year before.

Canadian eggs on the English market took first preference against all others, Mr. Hunter mentioned. The great need today was better handling of eggs, he emphasized. Speedier marketing was necessary to prevent deterioration between the producer and consumer.

A cricket makes more noise than a hornet, but commands less respect.

While the German mark has collapsed and the French franc has depreciated alarmingly, the value of the pound sterling has steadily advanced in dollars and cents, and the rise in sterling has coincided with a substantial improvement in Britain's credit abroad. The reason given for this by British economists is that that country alone among the European belligerents, has succeeded in balancing her budget out that they have repaid various foreign loans incurred during the war.

One English authority stated that "Notwithstanding the deep depression in trade from which we are slowly emerging, we have been able to begin the payment of interest upon the American debt, amounting at par of exchange to $62,692,000 pounds. This involves a payment of nearly 25,000,000 pounds every half year and it might have been supposed that the necessity of purchasing dollars to this amount would have resulted in a decline in the New York quotations, more especially as the passing of the Fordney tariff has at the same time made it more difficult for foreign goods to enter the United States.

"So far, however, from this being the case, the exchange has improved from the lowest point of 4.18, marked in January, to 4.50 in June, and after falling to about 4.37 in September, steadily improved during the next two months and at the close of November was within 9 per cent. of the old gold parity. In the early days of December the improvement continued and by the middle of the month the value was within five per cent. of the old gold basis.

"The movement was largely helped during the summer and early autumn by the long continued strike in the American coal fields and by the stoppage on the American railroads. The coal strike resulted first in the gradual loss of the American export trade in coal, British coal taking its place in all the large markets of the world, where it had had in pre-war days a practical monopoly, and later in the shipment of several million tons of coal and large quantities of pig iron from this country to the United States and Canada.

"An important factor in the recovery in sterling has been the considerable rise in gold prices which has taken place in America.

"A notable feature in the exchange during the year was the restoration of the Canadian dollar to parity with the American. This was achieved in August last after the Canadian dollar had been at a varying discount since November, 1917. The improvement was brought about in large part by the heavy purchases by Canadian provinces, municipalities and commercial undertakings in New York."

King George and Queen Mary will be the guests of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena at the Quirinal Palace during their visit to Rome in the spring. Their Majesties also will pay a visit to Pope Pius. CHAPTER VII.The Old Trail

For another mile Wade followed the main road and then diverged sharply to the left into what was known as the old, or upper, trail. This had formerly been the valley road until made dangerous by a wash-out a year or two previous. In the following spring the wash-out had been partially repaired, but the going was still so rough that the new road was widened and had been used by preference ever since. The old trail, however, was nearly four miles the shorter of the two, and was still traveled in cases of emergency, although to do so at speed and in the dark was hazardous.

Wade's promise to Dorothy to take good care of himself had been made with mental reservation, for, obsessed by his anxiety about Santry, the young ranchman was in no mood to spare either himself or his horse. His going was marked by a constant shower of stones, sometimes behind him, as the wiry cayuse climbed like a mountain goat; but at other times, as horse and rider coasted perilously down some declivity. The horse sweated and trembled with nervousness, as a frightened child might, but never refused to attempt what its master demanded of it. One might almost say that there existed a human understanding between man and beast as to the importance of their errand; a common pulse, which urged them onward.

When Wade reflected that Dorothy, too, had come over that trail by night in his interest, he thought her more than ever a wonderful girl. Even to one born and raised in the cattle country, the trip would have been difficult; but then he realized that Dorothy seemed much like a ranch-bred girl in her courage and frank womanliness, nor was she any less charming on that account. After all, he thought, women paid too highly for little accomplishments, if to gain them they had to sacrifice the vital points of character. He could not help but contrast Helen's insistence that she should be escorted back to the hotel with Dorothy's brave ride alone, and while he was too loyal to Helen Rex Hill to blame her in this respect, the thing made a deep impression upon him.

The way was long, and he had time for many thoughts. It was natural, in the still night, with Dorothy only a little while gone, that he should think tenderly of her, for this cost Santry nothing. For Santry, Wade was reserving not thought but action. He was making up his mind that if Moran had taken the foreman into custody on a trumped up charge of murder, the agent should feel the power of a greater tribunal than any court in the locality—the law of the Strong Arm. Behind him in this, the ranchman knew, was the whole of the cattle faction, and since war had been thrust upon them he would not stop until the end came, whatever it might be. His conscience was clean, for he had exerted himself manfully in the cause of peace, even to the point where his own character had suffered, and now the hour of retribution was at hand.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McCleure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

HEAD OFFICE: MONTREAL

He rode, at last, over the top of the Divide and into the little draw that led up to the ranch buildings, in the windows of which lights gleamed. With an imprecation at sight of them, he tied his horse to a post, and, revolver in hand, crept toward the house as quietly as a Sioux.

Except for the light, there was no sign of life about the place, and Wade craftily advanced into the "deeper shadows close to the wall of the house. Taking off his hat, so that the crown might not betray him, he peeped through a window. What he saw made him clench his fingers and grit his teeth in rage.

Inside were half a dozen men, besides three of his own ranch hands who lay trussed up like turkeys in one corner of the room; doubtless they had been surprised by the posse before they had opportunity to run or put up a fight. Moran was there, stretched comfortably on Wade's own cot, smoking a cigar. Once, he looked directly toward the window at which the watcher had placed himself but the latter did not move. Instead he fingered his gun and waited; he was not sure that he really wanted to avoid detection; if it came, Moran would pay, and the rest, at the moment, did not seem to matter. He had forgotten Dorothy entirely.

But Santry was not there and this fact puzzled Wade. The Sheriff was not there either, and presently it occurred to the cattleman that a part of the posse, with Santry, might have returned to Crawling Water over the main trail. Probably Moran, with the rest, was waiting for him. The mere thought of Santry already on his way to fill Wade with a baffling sense of rage, and creeping from the house, he examined the surrounding turt by the faint rays of the moon. It was badly cut up by the feet of many horses, and several minutes passed before Wade was really sure that a number of mounted men had taken the trail back to town. Satisfied of this at length, he untied his horse and swung into the saddle.

Before riding away he considered the advisability of driving off the horses, belonging to Moran's party, but there would still be others in the corral, and besides their absence, when discovered, would give warning of the impending attack. On second thought, however, he quietly made his way to the corral and caught a fresh horse of his own. When he had saddled it he set out over the old trail for the big pine.

When he reached the rendezvous the men were not there; not knowing that he must meet them if he followed the road from there on he "did not stop. He came upon them in a few minutes, riding toward him at full speed, with Tim Sullivan in the van, too drunk to stand erect, but able to balance himself on a horse's back, drunk or sober.

"We come across Santry and the Sheriff a while back," explained Big Bob Lawson, one of Wade's own punchers. "They must be in town by now. We was aimin' to light into 'em, but Santry wouldn't hear of it. Course, we took our orders from him same as usual. He said to tell you that you wanted to keep quiet, an' that's what he aimed to do."

"He said we wasn't to tell you that he didn't shoot them Swedes," put in another of the men.

"What?" Wade demanded sharply.

"He said—'hic!' broke in Tim Sullivan, with drunken gravity. "He said—'hic!'—that if you didn't know that without—'hic!'—bela' told, you wasn't no friend of his'n, an'—'hic!'—you could go to hell."

"Shut up, you drunken fool!" Lawson snapped out.

"Jensen and his herder were shot in the back, they say. That clears Santry," Wade declared, and sat for some moments in deep thought, while the men waited as patiently as they could. "Lawson," he said, at last, "you're in charge for the present. Take the boys to the big pine and camp there quietly until I come back. I'm going into town."

"Hadt' you better take us with you, boss? We'll stick. We're for you an' Bill Santry an' agin' these sheepherders, whenever you say the word."

"That's—hic—what we are!" Sullivan hiccupped.

Wade shook his head.

Redistribution Bill Will Be Considered By Special Committee

Ottawa.—Referring to the distribution Bill, Premier King said in the House that the Government was of the opinion that the work of the special committee to be appointed to consider the bill would be done better if the committee was a small one. It appeared to the Government that a committee composed of 11 members would be about the right size to deal with the matters involved in the Redistribution Bill without being unwieldy. However, as members of the Opposition considered this too small, the Government had decided to concede a committee of 15 members on which each of the different groups in the House would have representation.

A bill to amend the Canadian Copyright Act was introduced in the House of Commons by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Robb explained that the existing Copyright Act, which was passed in 1921, had never been proclaimed, and so had never come into effect. The purpose of the present bill was to make some minor amendments to the act, bring it into harmony with the British copyright law, and with the international copyright convention.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Immigration, announced in the House that he proposed to bring down a bill in respect to Chinese immigration. Features of the bill would be a system of registration and finger prints.

CANADA MAY HAVE ENVOY AT WASHINGTON

COULD THEN BECOME MEMBER OF PAN-AMERICAN UNION

Montreal.—There is only one obstacle to Canada's being invited to membership in the Pan-American Union, according to John Barrett, general counsel and adviser of the union, and that is that Canada has no minister plenipotentiary at Washington. The constitution governing bodies shall consist of ministers of each member nation functioning at the American capital. When he pointed this out to the Prime Minister, Mr. Barrett said in an interview, Mr. Mackenzie King "indicated that this obstacle would be wiped out in future," shadowing, according to Mr. Barrett, the establishment of a Canadian ambassador at Washington.

The Pan-American Union comprises 21 member nations and is an official organization devoted to the development of commerce, friendship and intercourse among the peoples on this continent.

From here an expedition will be organized in the beginning of June. It is said that mineral resources will be investigated.

Proposal to Have Nations Control Ruhr

Internationalization Is Urged By British Labor Mission

London.—Four Scottish Labor members of the House of Commons, John Wheatly, James Macdon, David Kirkwood and the Rev. Campbell Stephen, who recently made a flying visit to the Ruhr, presented a report of their impressions to their colleagues.

They declare there is no hope of British mediation and that the only alternative will be for France, Germany, Great Britain, Belgium and Italy to internationalize the Ruhr and put the administration of that territory in the hands of an international board to distribute the dividends earned as reparations.

U. S. Secret Service Has Unearthed Great Counterfeiting Scheme

New York.—United States secret service operatives have rounded up 61 alleged counterfeiters involved in a plot of international scope, whereby between $1,000,000 and $10,000,000 in spurious money has been dumped into the trading marts of a score of nations.

A nation-wide hunt is being carried on, it was discovered, for the capture of 1,000 members of a gang that maintained its headquarters in a basement in the Italian quarter of New York.

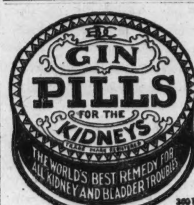

Government operatives in Detroit, Chicago, San Francisco and other large cities, with the details of the elaborate plot at their finger tips, are prepared to raid counterfeiters' dens in the foreign quarters of their cities. Police of South and Central America and Western European nations have been informed of the hunt by foreign agents of the giant crime ring.

The plot was hatched after the capture of three men alleged by the authorities to be the leaders of an organization of international ramifications, and the discovery of the printing presses which turned out hundreds of thousands of United States $2, $5, $10 and $20 bills. United States gold pieces, Austrian kronen, Italian lire, internal revenue stamps and certificates, postage stamps, watermarked prohibition papers, whisky and champagne bottle labels, and bogus drug and liquor permits.

Joseph A. Palma, Chief of the Special Service Squad of the International Revenue Department, declared thousands of dollars' worth of bogus money found its way into foreign ports, especially Cuba and the West Indies, through members of the boat crews in the rum fleet.

The headquarters and manufacturing plant of the gang, Palma reported, was in a basement at 29 Cornelia Street, in the heart of Greenwich Village. There were seven wholesale distributing agencies in New York City and surrounding territory, the principal one in Broome Street, a stone's throw from police headquarters.

one wishing further information may see, at this office, a ulations," issued by the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa—

Dear Sir: In reply to your mits to fish, I beg to say that any British subject or bona fide homesteader is en-cense under which he may

Yours,
J. D. Willson,
Inspector of Fisheries.

Wm. Gilbert last week returned from the annual meeting of the Canadian Swine Breeders' Assn., held in Toronto on Feb. 13th. Mr.
Gilbert was the representative of the Alberta Swine Breeders' association to this meeting, at which resolution presented by the Alberta provincial association was discussed and which asked the co-operation of the Canadian Swine

Breeders' association in taking steps leading to the establishment of a fixed basis of judging. A committee of three breeders have been appointed to work out a system of judging all breeds of swine and to bring in a report on the question of standardizing the judging thro-out the Dominion of Canada. This matter met with hearty approval of H.S. Arkoll, federal live stock commissioner, who was present at the meeting.

Now that the bacon production question is such a live one and is being so aggressively promoted by both the provincial and dominion governments, the question of type has become extremely vital; and it was confusing to the breeders to have one judge place an animal first at one fair, and to have his judgement reversed at the following fair by a different judge who probably had a different type in his mind.

POPULAR GIRL IS PRAISING TANLAC

Miss Ions Declares It Completely Overcame Indigestion, Restoring Lost Weight and Full Strength

"I never gave a statement for any medicine in my life, but Tanlac helped me so much I think it is only right I should tell about it," declared Miss Margaret Ions, 410 115, St. N.W., Calgary, Alberta. Miss Ions served overseas in the war and is a highly respected and popular girl.

"I was in a badly run-down condition for a year," she said. "I felt off fifteen pounds and felt tired and worn out all the time. My appetite left me, the little I did manage to eat didn't seem to do me a particle of good, and I suffered terribly from indigestion. My nerves were all unstrung, I could get no restful sleep, and I really don't believe I ever saw a well day."

"But two bottles of Tanlac changed things completely. I began to pick up at once, have gained five pounds, and never felt better. My nerves are steady, I sleep soundly, and my indigestion is gone. It is a pleasure to recommend Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug stores.

Over 25-million bottles sold.

Sun Life Assurance Co.

Record of Business Gives Demonstration of Stability of the Company. The financial statement of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada for the year 1922, published this week, must be regarded as highly satisfactory from every measure of progress and prosperity. Its items, relating both to development and strength, show striking advances over previous records, especially those in connection with total business in force and assets.

Indication that a policy of large-scale expansion has been accompanied by prudent and economical management. After allowing for cancellations, death and maturity claims, etc., assurances in force reach a total of $631,404,869, this being by far the greatest amount outstanding on the books of any Canadian Life Company. This figure represents an increase of $91,688,728, the greatest advance ever recorded by the Company in a twelve-month period. Another notable item is that relating to cash income from premiums, interest, etc., which reaches a new high-water mark of $36,351,322, representing an increase of $5,144,172 over the year 1921.

Tour to Hudson's Bay

Prominent Business Men to Charter Vessel and Investigate Conditions

First Hand. Some prominent men of the west have formed the Hudson Bay Tourist Syndicate for the specific purpose of organizing a tour, leaving Montreal on August 1 next, for Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay, the probable terminal of the Hudson Bay Railway.

It is expected that over 200 will avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing this much discussed locality and that the navigability of the Bay and Strait will be settled beyond doubt, once and for all. A specially chartered Atlantic passenger steamer is being arranged for. Full particulars of the tour will be made later.

STORMY WEATHER HARD ON BABY

The stormy, blustery weather which we have during February and March is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep them in the house. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep its stomach and bowels working regularly. This will not fail to break up colds and keep the health of the baby in good condition till the brighter days come along. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

B.C. Apples In Britain

First Shipment of Yorkshires Port Gets Ready Sale

Particular interest was shown in the arrival at Hull of a large consignment of British Columbia apples, being the first shipment of apples from the Pacific coast to that port. The fruit was in first-class condition and attracted a big gathering of buyers when it was put up at auction. Hull is rapidly establishing a first-class position in connection with the fruit trade. It is a main distributing centre for Yorkshire and the Northern Midlands and for re-exports to the continent.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels, and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated, or full of cold, children love its "fruity" taste, and mothers can rest easy because it never fails to work all the soiling food and nasty life right out of the stomach and bowels without griping or upsetting the child. Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.
